This program is designed for students who intend to begin their careers in the fields of marketing, human resources, and business planning and design, as well as for those who are interested in business more broadly. The program curriculum combines the study of fundamental topics such as economics and finance, law, sociology and psychology, with the acquisition of specialized management-specific disciplines. In the first two years of the program, students master core topics before choosing the field that they wish to specialize in for their third and fourth years.
