This programme is intended for those who wish to develop successful projects in education, and effectively manage them, or become a qualified analyst, expert, or researcher. Students learn to make informed decisions related to educational policy, business, and science based on data, latest theories, and gain an understanding of the economics of educational products and management principles.

The interdisciplinary nature and variability of the programme allows students to customize their studies. For instance, a student can learn to effectively launch startups on the growing market of educational services, develop expert reports and strategies, manage complex projects, or begin his/her career in public administration, science, or consulting.
