Health Care Administration and Economy is the first Master's Programme in Russia aimed at professional economists with experience in health care administration.

The programme aims to give students practical management skills and advanced knowledge on modern methods of administration. The students are directly involved in the process of developing the most progressive methods for solving current problems in health care. A unique combination of theoretical and applied disciplines, as well as compulsory practice in health care administration bodies, medical institutions and insurance companies will prepare managers to face contemporary challenges.
