This doctoral school is a new format for doctoral studies at HSE. The aim of the school is to prepare highly qualified researchers by providing a new level of historical knowledge of Russia, while also integrating them into the global academic community.

The programme offers you the possibility of deeply immersing yourself in the academic and research world, by participating in conferences and seminars, not only at HSE, but also by participating directly in your chosen field of study and providing opportunities to get to know other scholars. The environment is international, as students from different countries have a chance to work together. This presents opportunities for developing a multicultural setting where everyone can share their personal experiences and ideas, thus making each day a moment of individual enrichment. Moreover, students get immersed in a world of open-minded academics who are ready to share their experience and knowledge in response to any question or idea posed by students. Thanks to this approach, positive and productive discussions are possible.
