The main advantage of the 'International Business' programme is a combination of two key areas: International Business and Business Analytics. A fundamental core in business studies goes along with flexible tracks covering regional studies, international business. Students acquire skills in forecasting new trends and finding best-designed solutions to respond to the strategic challenges of an ever-changing modern business environment. Programme students are encouraged to take internships abroad to develop their intercultural skills. Upon graduation, students are welcome in the areas of business analytics and consulting as business visionaries.
