More than ever before, the successful business leaders of today must possess a long-term vision of future risks and opportunities on the global stage. To equip students for careers in international business, this unique programme combines a business degree with an international affairs degree.

Through practice-oriented instruction, students learn traditional business skills like accounting, marketing, and negotiating, and gain knowledge in the political, economic, and socio-cultural aspects of the global marketplace. Students can take electives taught by senior executives of global companies, work on real-life consulting projects for clients, and spend a semester studying at a partner university.

Graduates understand not only how companies function, but also the complex context in which they operate. They are well equipped to work as financial analysts, investment bankers, consultants, entrepreneurs, marketers, and much more.

Career opportunities:

Graduates have a strong competitive advantage and possesses not only strong managerial skills, but also knowledge of economics, politics, foreign policy, and international law. They go on to work in companies including PricewaterhouseCoopers, KPMG, Ernst&Young, L'Oreal, Korean Embassy in Russia, Michelin, Henkel, Kraft Foods, Sakhalin Energy Investment Company, and Vogue

Double degree programmes:

The MIB program at HSE offers a Double Degree option with two universities:

- The Darla Moore School MIB, University of South Carolina (USA)
- LUISS University (Rome)

Partner universities:
