

Theory and Practice of English Language

South Ural State University

Degree or qualification is awarded: Master of Philology

Language of study: English

Mode of study: full-time

Duration: 2 years years

Availability of free education: no

Price: 141 000 rubles

Programme webpage at the university website:

<https://www.susu.ru/en/education/masters-degree-programs/450401-philology-theory-and-practice-english>

Programme curator: Volchenkova Ksenia Nickolaevna

Tel.: 8 (351) 267-92-22

E-mail: volchenkovakn@susu.ru

Students receive the fundamental knowledge and professional skills in the area of modern interlingual and intercultural communication.

In the academic process, active and interactive lesson forms are widely used (dialog-type seminars, discussions, computer simulations, business and role-playing games, case studies, psychological training, group discussions, student research group reports, university and inter-university teleconferences), as well as expert master classes and practical lessons, teaching of classes in author course form. Leading researchers and professors from Russian and international universities are invited annually to read lectures, lead practical lessons, and supervise masters' research activities.

A translator can perform the duties of a legal assistant (business correspondence, preparation of analytical surveys and reports, participation in negotiations.) Graduates of this master's program qualify for a wide range of vacancies besides pure translation, for example those which require solid knowledge of two foreign languages, a wide general cultural perspective, and skills in the area of intercultural communications.

Graduates can perform research and teaching activities in educational institutions (primarily in universities) and also realize themselves in the fields of artistic and special translation, editorial work, project work in cultural institutions, consultation work in linguistic and national politics and inter-ethnic relationships in administrative offices.

Specification

The study program covers all fundamentals of the English language theory, methodology of linguistic research, modern ELT technologies, English for academic purposes. Wide range of special courses taught by research staff includes innovations in education, leading translation theories, intercultural communication, discourse analysis and philology, linguistic analysis, etc.

Research work. From the first days of study students are actively involved in the challenging research environment. They are active members of the research teams that stimulate effective professional growth. Participating in scientific conferences enables them to develop their professional skills and abilities to carry out effective academic research.

Benefits:

Modern educational technologies,
Intercultural environment,
Cultural performances,
Sports facilities,
Modern library halls,
Health centre.

The program is for: applicants with a Bachelor's Degree, fluent in English and planning a future international career in Linguistics.

Specializations within this programme

Philology (Theory and Practice of English)

Students receive the fundamental knowledge and professional skills in the area of modern interlingual and intercultural communication.

In the academic process, active and interactive lesson forms are widely used (dialog-type seminars, discussions, computer simulations, business and role-playing games, case studies, psychological training, group discussions, student research group reports, university and inter-university teleconferences), as well as expert master classes and practical lessons, teaching of classes in author course form. Leading researchers and professors from Russian and international universities are invited annually to read lectures, lead practical lessons, and supervise masters' research activities.

A translator can perform the duties of a legal assistant (business correspondence, preparation of analytical surveys and reports, participation in negotiations.) Graduates of this master's program qualify for a wide range of vacancies besides pure translation, for example those which require solid knowledge of two foreign languages, a wide general cultural perspective, and skills in the area of intercultural communications.

Graduates can perform research and teaching activities in educational institutions (primarily in universities) and also realize themselves in the fields of artistic and special translation, editorial work, project work in cultural institutions, consultation work in linguistic and national politics and inter-ethnic relationships in administrative offices.

Specification

The study program covers all fundamentals of the English language theory, methodology of linguistic research, modern ELT technologies, English for academic purposes. Wide range of special courses taught by research staff includes innovations in education, leading translation theories, intercultural communication, discourse analysis and philology, linguistic analysis, etc.

Research work. From the first days of study students are actively involved in the challenging research environment. They are active members of the research teams that stimulate effective professional growth. Participating in scientific conferences enables them to develop their professional skills and abilities to carry out effective academic research.

Benefits:

- Modern educational technologies,
- Intercultural environment,
- Cultural performances,
- Sports facilities,
- Modern library halls,
- Health centre.

The program is for: applicants with a Bachelor's Degree, fluent in English and planning a future international career in Linguistics.

Research work. From the first days of study students are actively involved in the challenging research environment. They are active members of the research teams that stimulate effective professional growth. Participating in scientific conferences enables them to develop their professional skills and abilities to carry out effective academic research. Benefits: - Modern educational technologies - Intercultural environment - Cultural performances - Sports facilities - Modern library halls - Health center The program is for: applicants with a Bachelor's Degree, fluent in English and planning a future international career in Linguistics.