Our intensive modules are designed to boost your skills in specific areas of finance, with modules appropriate for current undergraduate students, prospective MSc students and those already working in industry.

The course combines theoretical and practical blocks, including team working, discussions and cases.

For successful mastery of the practical block, students do not need special skills in MatLab programming or Stata modeling.

You'll also benefit from a social program that includes networking events to meet with fellow summer school students. We've designed the teaching schedule to give you the chance to explore this great city, and those nearby, at weekends.

Duration: 2 weeks

ECTS credits: 4

Participation fee:

Early bird fee: 510 eur

Regular fee: 540

Participation fee includes tuition fee, study materials, field trips and cultural program.

Cultural program

Socio-cultural program of extracurricular activities and networking events are included*:

- - Field trip to the Stock Exchange "St. Petersburg" and the Money history museum where students get knowledge of features of modern production of banknotes and contactless payments;
